

Big Show, Volume 1

The Big Show presented a weekly mixture of comedy, drama and music from such guest stars as Jimmy Durante, Ethel Merman, Danny Thomas, Groucho Marx, Fanny Brice, Bob Hope, Eddie Cantor, Rudy Vallee, Judy Garland and Fred Allen - the latter graduating to semi-regular/contributing writer status. In fact, each program found the guests introducing themselves by name; the introductions completed with a husky voice intoning ...and my name, dahlings, is Tallulah Bankhead. Bankhead, a celebrated stage veteran renowned for her work in plays like The Little Foxes and The Skin of Our Teeth, served as the shows mistress of ceremonies - proving to be both an apt foil for the programs guests and a self-deprecating good sport for an endless series of rivalry-with-Bette-Davis jokes. In explaining her motivation for agreeing to host a weekly radio series, she told Newsweek Magazine I have to live in the style, dahling, to which Im really accustomed. The glamorous, unpredictable Talloo also added two memorable trademarks to the Big Show proceedings: announcing the networks half-hour I.D. as an opportunity to ring my chimes and leading the shows guest roster in a rendition of May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You at each programs close.
